“Is China’s Economy Heading for a Crash?”

Featuring

Dr. ZHAO Yue

Chief Economist of Chief Securities Limited, Hong Kong Former Director of Macroeconomic Research at China Investment Corporation

For decades, the Chinese miracle achieved enviable growth rates that allowed it to become the second largest economy in the world. In the recent two years, however, increasing doubts have been casted over the future outlooks of China’s economy. Recent figures have been weak, with the second quarter GDP growth dropping to 7.6%. While the slowing down of the Chinese economy is undeniably true, exacerbated by local government debt and real estate bubble, are there more powerful and systemic economic forces at play? Is China heading for a crisis, or is it just the darkness before dawn? What are the prospects for China’s economy?
